DAILY CHECK IN

STATE 3: FEELING A LITTLE STRESSED: Emotional Housecleaning

You are a little stressed. Use Emotional Housecleaning to clear away the negative feelings and to become more aware of the positive feelings that are under them.

Complete the following sentences:

- I feel angry that...
- I feel sad that...
- I feel afraid that...
- I feel guilty that I... I feel grateful that... I feel happy that...
- I feel secure that...
- I feel proud that I...

When you have finished scroll down.

STATE 4: FEELING DEFINITELY STRESSED:

This is a moment of opportunity to weaken stress circuits and to build circuits that bring you joy.

- Just the Facts: State why you are feeling stressed. No feelings. This offers a moment of opportunity to change the way you process the daily stress of life.
- Begin the Natural Flow of Feelings: Express your feelings Feel your anger in your body, and then express it, using short, choppy statements:
 - I feel ANGRY that...
 - I feel SAD that...
 - I feel AFRAID that...
 - I feel GUILTY that I...
- My unreasonable expectation is... (An unreasonable expectation is an old circuit that was encoded early in life or later on during stress. Once you know what it is, you can begin rewriting it.)
- My reasonable expectation is... (The new circuit is the opposite of the old one (e.g. "I have to be perfect" becomes "I do not have to be perfect.")

Your brain is very open to change now!

Type in and say (aloud or to yourself) your new expectation 10 times.

When you have finished scroll down.
